The Deacon's Corner

The conundrum of the million dollar man, and the penny pincher.

Dear OakStone family, here's a question for you. If you were offered a job to work for 30 days straight and you would be paid in one of two ways:

1. $1 million cash on the first day. And that's all.
2. Or one penny on the first day, double it to two pennies on the second day, double it to four pennies on the third day. Continuing to double your pay every day for 30 days.

Now here's the question: which way would you prefer to get paid?

It seems like a simple choice. Unless you already know the answer to this riddle you would likely take the 1 million cash up front.

There's really no right or wrong answer here, but look at the difference. Believe it or not, one penny doubled every day for 30 days is $5,368,709.12. I bet you're thinking that's unreal but if you do the math, you'll see that it's true.

Here's the point of this riddle/story. Jesus tells us in Mark 16:15–16 "go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creation. He who believes and is baptized will be saved, but he who does not believe will be condemned."

Imagine if once a year somebody that you share the gospel with accepted Christ as their Lord and Savior, and they went on once a year to share the gospel with somebody and then they accepted Christ. Just like the penny that got doubled every day for 30 days, in 30 years you could be responsible for the word of God, reaching and possibly saving well over 5 million people.
